★ What kind of borders citizens of cross-border regions want for the future Europe? At the European level, current discussions evolve around different border regimes, EU border policies, cross-border cooperation as the driver of European integration and social as well as economic considerations of open or closed borders. At the local level, there are questions about the role of borders in citizens' daily life, cultural borders and potentials but also challenges of cross-border cooperation.

In cooperation with the Eurodistrict Strasbourg-Ortenau, the Euro-Institut, as partner of the TEIN4Citizens project, organises a series of workshops that enabled citizens, experts and local representatives to discuss Identity & Multilingualism, Culture, Mobility and Environment in cross-border regions and Europe.

Co-funded by the Europe for Citizens Programme of the European Union

At the round table discussion on April 22 the results of these workshops will be presented and discussed with representatives from the European Parliament and Commission as well as local/regional politicians and citizen representatives.

Join the debate and share your ideas for the future of cross-border cooperation and Europe!
